

Mercury Insurance is a ‘Best Auto Insurance Company’ for 2019, According to Insure.com

When it comes to choosing an insurance provider, there are a lot of options. Low rates and multiple discounts offered by carriers can make it difficult for shoppers to choose an insurer—so who better to look to for recommendations than actual customers?

Insure.com surveyed thousands of insurance consumers across America—3,100 to be exact—and once again, Mercury Insurance stood out as a top insurance pick. The survey asked consumers to rate their insurance providers on the criteria of “customer service,” “claims processing,” “value for price,” “usefulness and ease-of-use of its website and mobile apps,” “plans to renew current policy” and “would recommend.” And for the third year in a row, Mercury was recognized as one of the top insurance companies in the United States.

“It’s an honor to receive this recognition from our policyholders,” said Mercury Insurance President and CEO Gabriel Tirador. “It’s true that we offer our customers some of the lowest rates in the industry, but we also provide them with exceptional service. They put a lot of trust in us and we take that responsibility seriously, because the true measure of a company is how they treat their customers in their time of need. This award lets our employees and agents know that what they do for our customers every day is appreciated.

“We have been dedicated to protecting our customers, their families and property ever since opening our doors in 1962. It’s a responsibility we take very seriously and we’re committed to providing the best service and protection at the lowest possible rate for everyone we insure.”
